Retirement Income Planning

For individuals who are approaching retirement, income planning is essential for maintaining financial independence. First, BHC creates a retirement budget that gives a clear picture of a client's income and expenses. Next, we look at their retirement assets and find solutions to vital questions such as: Will the client be able to maintain the lifestyle he or she enjoyed before retiring? How long can they anticipate their retirement assets to last? What strategy can we implement that will preserve financial independence and prevent the depletion of retirement assets?

The objective of Retirement Income Planning is to define our clients' retirement goals, and create a plan to achieve those goals. This results in income from prudent investments and maintains financial independence.
